STATE OF FLORIDA

MILITARY DEPARTMENT

OFFICE OF THE ADJUTANT GENERAL

ST. AUGUSTINE

31 December 1952

His Excellency, The Governor of Florida and Commander-in-Chief, Florida National Guard, Tallahassee, Florida.

Sir:

Herewith is submitted the biennial report of the Adjutant General of Florida, pertaining to the administration of the Division of Military Affairs of the Executive Department for the calendar years 1951 and 1952, pursuant to the provisions of Section 250.10, Florida Statutes 1949.

GENERAL

The Florida National Guard during the calendar years 1951 and 1952 has made considerable progress in stabilizing its personnel after its rapid growth during its organizational period since 1946. Despite the loss of several units to active federal service, and the loss of personnel to the regular services through voluntary enlistment, the Florida National Guard has managed through constant recruiting efforts by its officers and enlisted men to maintain its overall strength during the biennium.

The two year period has shown a noteworthy advancement in the degree of training and administration of all echelons of command, and the splendid reports received from regular army inspectors for both armory and field training, have been most gratifying. The objective of the Florida National Guard during this period has been to provide an organized, trained force for both State and Nation.

Detailed reports as to organization, training, administration, equipment, fiscal accounting and duties performed are to be found in this biennial report under their appropriate headings.

Following are listed the administrative officers of the Military Department, State of Florida:

The Adjutant General.....Major General Mark W. Lance
Assistant Adjutant General.....Brig. General Robert G. White
U. S. Property &

Disbursing Officer.....Colonel Julian F. Pfaff
State Quartermaster.....Colonel Ralph W. Cooper, Jr.
Personnel Officer.....Colonel Owen W. Griffin
Adjutant.....Major Raymond C. Ransom
Air Force Administrative Officer.....Major Charles F. Riggle, Jr.

TRAINING

1. General

a. To maintain in all units a state of readiness sufficiently high to assure the successful accomplishment of any national or state mission that is likely to be assigned.

b. National missions likely to be assigned required that the training objective for all units include thorough preparation for the receipt and training of fillers upon mobilization. Individual training essential to the progress of all unit training, had for its objectives the development of leadership and the qualification of each individual in his primary specialty.

c. The objective for 1951 was the completion of the three-year plan, started in 1949 with the objective of rounding out, within reasonable limits, combat-ready units in a three year period. The objective for 1952 was the maintenance and improvement of the state of readiness achieved on completion of implementation of the three-year plan.

d. Included in all objectives were training and school programs to compensate for losses in personnel, including key enlisted men and experienced officers, which were serious but not critical during the entire period.

2. Armory Training

a. 1951. The completion of training in implementation of the three-year plan.

b. 1952. Retention of units at a satisfactory state of readiness by: advancement of qualifications of available critical, key personnel; and training of fillers and replacements for key personnel. Conduct of this training was strongly influenced by the expectation of the limited administration of Army Training Tests scheduled for subsequent field training.

3. Field Training

a. 1951. Advanced individual and intermediate unit training, to include limited field exercises of battalion and regimental level and firing of all types of organic weapons.

b. 1952. The training objective was not changed except for the introduction of the requirement that the Army Training Tests be used as a guide for all field training. The expected benefits from these tests were: increased realism in training; and modification of National Guard training to effect closer conformation to Regular Army training standards.

4. Week-end Training

Completion of small arms, mortar, and automatic weapons firing prior to the scheduled field training, and the conduct of individual and unit basic training.

5. Staff Training

Continuation of the three-year plan for training for battalion, regimental, and division staffs started in 1950. An additional objective in this training was to bring the division staffs together, which had been possible previously only during field training.

6. School Program.

Continuation of school training of required specialists and increased efforts to establish a pool of officer replacements to compensate for an increase in losses of war-experienced officer personnel.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

a. 1951. On completion of the three-year cycle, the results could be termed satisfactory. Due to various causes, principal among them the inevitable turnover of personnel and limited time, no unit had been able to reach its prescribed objectives one hundred per cent. The state of readiness achieved proved that the three-year plan was workable and that the implementation had been executed with high efficiency. The Manpower Guide, a series of organization tables indicating systems of organization of units under various reductions in strength, issued by the Department of the Army, was put into effect in many units. Economies in manpower and increases in the effectiveness of training were immediately evidenced. Non-commissioned officers' schools, campaigns to increase enrollment in officers' extension courses, and similar special training programs, to improve the leadership qualifications of junior officers and non-commissioned officers, were established and important benefits began to be realized within a very short period. In previous years coordination of planning of armory and field training was effected thoroughly and efficiently at battalion level, but with less effectiveness at regimental and divisional levels. In 1951 the planning at regimental level began to show remarkable improvement resulting in a valuable increase in the quality of training.

b. 1952. The state of readiness, that had been attained on completion of the three-year training cycle, was maintained and improved. The manpower economies and increases in efficiency, evidenced as a result of the introduction of the Manpower Guide in 1951, were realized on an even greater scale as this guide was placed into universal use. The leadership training programs initiated in 1951 continued to prove highly beneficial.

As a result of increased success in recruiting, unit commanders were able to begin to exercise selectivity to such an extent that the quality of personnel accepted into the guard, in many units, showed a marked improvement in the efficiency and effectiveness of those organizations. Competitions in organizational efficiency, training, marksmanship, drill, and the like, introduced in 1951, and conducted on a large scale at State, divisional, and regimental levels in 1952, increased the efficiency of general training throughout the State. Training of regimental units showed a marked improvement due to the continued advance in efforts, by regimental headquarters, to improve the coordination of planning of all types of training. Training was more effective also as a result of greatly increased effort to coordinate planning of training at divisional level.

2. Armory Training.

a. 1951. The high level of efficiency in armory training attained in previous years, was maintained. Factors which handicapped training efforts included: obsolescence of National Guard Training Programs and Subject Schedules; inadequate training aids; and the shortages of up-to-date Field and Technical Manuals in unit libraries.

b. 1952. Efficiency in armory training advanced well beyond the high level maintained in 1951, primarily because of the greatly increased supply and improved availability of very high quality training aids. Other factors contributing to this advance included: increased personnel strength; use of the Manpower Guide; advance of leader schooling and training programs; and procurement of Army, traveling teams of specialists for technician training. The advance was made in spite of the following handicaps: withdrawal of equipment, particularly certain types of radios and mortars, for use in Korea; obsolescence of National Guard Training Programs and Subject Schedules; and the shortages of up-to-date Field and Technical Manuals in unit libraries.

3. Field Training:

a. 1951. Field Training took place as follows:

Units	Training Sites	Dates

Training included: Advanced individual training; intermediate unit training, including exercises of battalion and regimental level; and firing of all types of organic weapons.

b. 1952. Field Training took place as follows:

In addition to equaling the scope of the 1951 field training, the 1952 training included the administration of Army Training Tests. These tests were not administered with the intent of accurately gauging the state of training of units or crews, but rather for the purpose of instructing units and crews concerning acceptable standards in the execution of drills and tactical exercises. As a result, the training benefits realized were numerous and valuable. Ammunition shortages detracted from the value of training but did not constitute a serious handicap generally.

4. Week-end Training.

Training accomplished on week-ends was highly advantageous. Firing practice was conducted for all types of weapons and, to a limited extent, individual and unit basic training was conducted. All units participated and attendance was very satisfactory. Funds available to provide pay for personnel attending these activities were reduced to the extent that only three week-end periods annually were allowable on a reimbursable basis, whereas six had been authorized in previous years. Many units continued the conduct of more than three week-end assemblies and good attendance was maintained despite the fact that reimbursement was, frequently, not possible. The completion of small arms firing during the period materially aided in increasing the value of field training.

5. Staff Training.

a. The rapid improvement in the effectiveness and efficiency of staff actions reflected the value of week-end and armory-drill period, staff training.

b. Week-end Staff Meetings.

Week-end Staff Meetings for the two year period were conducted as follows:

Units	FY - 1951	FY - 1952

RIFLE MATCHES

THE 1952 NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP MATCHES:

Through the efforts of the Jacksonville Rifle Club and the Jacksonville Police Pistol Club, the National Rifle Association Smallbore Rifle Championship Matches and the National Rifle Association Pistol Championship Matches were held in Jacksonville, Florida. The Pistol Championship Matches were held from August 15th through August 19th; and the Smallbore Rifle Championship Matches were held August 21st through August 24th. Several hundred competitors from every part of the United States were in Jacksonville to attend these matches.

The National Rifle Association High Power Rifle Championship Matches were held at Fort Benning, Georgia, from August 27th through September 2nd.

The Florida National Guard was represented in the National Matches by the following:

Pistol Matches

Major James A. Dowling, Jr., Hq 48th Infantry Division
WOJG Robert W. Stine, Service Company 124th Infantry

INSTRUCTOR CORPS

Officers and non-commissioned officers, detailed as instructors and advisors by the Department of the Army and Department of the Air Force to the Florida National Guard and Air National Guard, have performed their duties in an excellent manner and have given most valuable service and advice in the training of the Army and Air National Guard. These officers and enlisted men of the regular military establishment have at all times given unstintingly of their time and knowledge, and are responsible in no small degree for the splendid state of training of the Florida National Guard troops and air units.

NATIONAL GUARD ARMORIES

The 1945 session of the Florida State Legislature made an appropriation under Chapter 22820 for buildings needed by the State of Florida, under which appropriation was included funds for Armories, predicated upon utilization of State funds in the amount of 50% of the total cost and local funds, to include City and/or County, for the balance, it being established by the Law that the contribution of lands would be construed as part of the City or County contribution based on the monetary value thereof. The above cited appropriation was passed prior to the reorganization of the Florida National Guard and contemplated the construction of approximately ten (10) Armories throughout the State. The subsequent reorganization of the National Guard, making it necessary to organize in communities in excess of those contemplated at the time of the 1945 session of the Legislature, has increased the needs of construction two fold.

While funds have been requested at each recent session of the Legislature for Armory construction, the Legislature has deleted all funds for State buildings under the plan as submitted by the Florida State Improvement Commission to this date, resulting in no State funds being available for Armory construction.

The Congress of the United States did, in 1950, pass a National Defense Facilities Act in which was included the authority for Federal contributions for the construction of National Guard Armories under a plan whereby the Federal Government would contribute up to 75% of the cost thereof, with the State furnishing the balance of the funds, and in addition thereto, the Armory site. Under this plan, no credit can be taken by the State for the value of the land. In the implementation of this plan, the Federal Government established certain criteria as to type of construction and space allocation based on the number of units to be housed, said criteria being predicated on a functional type building only, suitable for the training of a National Guard unit, or units, and not contemplating the use thereof by other than the military. A building thus constructed would not fully satisfy the requirements of the National Guard, in that it is felt to the best advantage of the National Guard to have their Armory used for proper civic functions where said use does not conflict with training and use by the National Guard. Civic use of an Armory building contributes greatly to the National Guard from the standpoint of public goodwill, it attracts potential recruits, allows for a potential source of revenue which can be utilized not only for maintenance of the building but for the comfort and well being of the troops. With the foregoing thought Armories have been planned embodying the features desirable for general use, with the knowledge that the Federal Government would not contribute in excess of the criteria established by them. There presently exists no appropriated funds for State contributions toward Armory construction. Funds have been requested in the budget of the Military Department for the 1953-54 biennium and should this budget be passed by the State Legislature, funds will be available from State appropriations for Armory construction, beginning the next fiscal year. In order that a working basis be established between the Department of the Army and the State of Florida, an Agreement between the United States of America and the State of Florida was executed on 23 June 1952 on behalf of the State by the Honorable Fuller Warren, as Governor, said Agreement outlining in general the basis for financing and construction under the Armory program.

RECOMMENDATIONS

It may be determined from the foregoing that further Armory construction is contingent upon not only a continuation of the program now in effect by the National Guard Bureau but on the availability of funds from State sources. Should State funds become available through appropriations by the next session of the Legislature, it is contemplated that Armories may be constructed adhering to the criteria as established by the National Guard Bureau or by expanding such criteria where additional funds are supplied by the community. It may be presumed that a one-unit Armory, to include professional services, embodying the features desirable to the community, may be constructed for approximately $125,000.00 and that the State's contribution in addition to land would amount to approximately 50% thereof. All communities where National Guard Armories are desirable should recognize that the first step is the conveyance of a suitable Armory site to the Armory Board. This site should be geographically located where it is accessible to potential National Guardsmen and to the community, in general; should have no objectionable surroundings, and must be eligible under the community zoning laws for Armory construction. The site should contain a minimum of 2½ acres, unless so located that other public lands may be utilized for outside training purposes, it should be well drained and all utility services should be available.

The number of National Guard Posts in the State of Florida has doubled since the advent of World War II and most of the new posts are housed in temporary facilities only. Approximately twenty (20) Armories are urgently needed by the State of Florida at the present time, and it is sincerely hoped that impetus from the local level will be provided leading toward Armory construction where adequate Armory facilities do not now exist.

ARMORIES REQUIRED

The following Armories listed as not adequate represent facilities urgently needed by the Florida National Guard to house organized units, to furnish necessary storage for State and Federal property and to implement the training and administration thereof. The list does not indicate any priorities. The priority of construction of buildings is established in accordance with the following criteria by the Armory Board.

1. Urgency as determined by cancellation of, or termination of, existing leases or rights-of-entry which are beyond the control of the Armory Board.
2. The furnishing of appropriate site by the City or County in which the Armory is to be constructed.
3. Availability of contributory funds from municipalities or counties.
4. Priorities established by Department of the Army and further upon allocation of contributory funds therefrom.
5. Any other consideration, as yet unforeseen, such as damage to existing facilities, unforeseen increases in strength or equipment of units in a location, activation of additional units, loss of units to Federal Service, etc.

STATE PROPERTY

There are approximately ninety-three (93) Memorandum Receipt Accounts maintained by the State Quartermaster for State property issued to units of the Florida National Guard. These properties consist of office furniture and equipment, and miscellaneous items required for the efficient operation of the various units or organizations and which are not included in the applicable Tables of Organization and Equipment for supply from Federal sources.

There is also a quantity of organizational field equipment maintained by the State Quartermaster for immediate delivery to any unit in the State requiring the items for use during periods of hurricane relief, disaster, or civil disturbance when called to Active State Duty to aid civil authorities.

Chapter 220.49, Laws of Florida 1943, revising Section 790.08, Florida Statutes 1941, subsection (2) directs that all confiscated weapons "shall be forthwith delivered by the Sheriff, or Chief of Police, having custody thereof to the Adjutant General of the Military Department of the State, who is hereby made the custodian of such weapons and arms for the State". During the calendar years 1951 and 1952, confiscated weapons have been received from the following agencies:

Jacksonville Police Department
Tampa Police Department
Sheriff, Marion County
Miami Police Department
Tallahassee Police Department
City of Orlando
Criminal Court, Hillsborough County
Sheriff, Putnam County
St. Petersburg Police Department

It will be noted that, during the past two years, only a few of the City and County police authorities have turned over weapons in accordance with the above referred to law. It is recommended that the turn in of confiscated weapons by all Peace Officers of the State be enforced.

FAITHFUL PERFORMANCE BOND

All commanders of units of the Florida National Guard and all employees of the Military Department (not otherwise required by law to be bonded) are bonded in the sum of $2,500.00 by a Public Employees Faithful Performance Blanket Position Bond. Each employee is bonded upon entrance on duty and remains covered by bond until cleared of all property and funds after being terminated from position.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION INSURANCE

The Military Department is a self insurer and as such has received and paid fifteen (15) claims for medical attendance and treatment in the amount of $280.00 and one (1) claim for compensation for the loss of a finger digit in the amount of $324.00.

CAMP BLANDING MILITARY RESERVATION

The Camp Blanding Military Reservation consists of approximately 32,000 acres of State owned land, and 40,710 acres of Federally owned land, of which 26,708 acres are now under revocable permit and right-of-entry to the Military Department, State of Florida for maneuver and training purposes. State owned buildings on this property are, for insurance purposes, valued at $1,025,890.00.

During the past year the Federal Government has negotiated with the State for a lease of a portion of the State owned lands and based on these negotiations have let contracts for certain construction. The construction, which includes the following, is now under way and near completion:

- a. Construction of a signal building.
- b. Reconstruction of railroad from Starke to the old warehouse area.
- c. Rehabilitation and extension of sewage lines, sewage pumping stations, and sewage disposal plant.
- d. Drilling of two new wells, rehabilitation of the majority of existing wells and pump houses, rehabilitation of existing water mains, laying of new water mains and installation of a number of new fire hydrants, rehabilitation of existing elevated water tanks and construction of two new water tanks.

The land, facilities and new construction are being returned to the State on a "Right-of-Entry" for use by the National Guard until such time as the Federal Government requires these for use as an active military installation. Certain buildings and land are specifically exempted under the terms of the lease to insure that the State will have adequate storage and operational facilities should the Federal Government activate the Camp.

The present operation of the State Maintenance Shops, Concentration Site Warehouses, Federal Technical Service Property Warehouse and State Property Warehouses will not be affected by the above lease and "Right-of-Entry".

During the past year a large quantity of shrubbery from the nursery at Camp Blanding has been made available to units of the Florida National Guard for landscaping and beautification of Armory grounds. This operation has resulted in a considerable saving to the Military Department and has materially improved the appearance of a number of Armories.

In 1948 a cooperative working agreement was entered into by the Military Department and the Florida State Prison for the utilization of the Camp Blanding Reservation in the production of beef for use by State Institutions. The following excerpts from a letter to the Adjutant General from the Honorable L. F. Chapman, Superintendent, Florida State Prison, dated 7 November 1952 are quoted:

" For five or six years now your department and the Prison Department have worked together at Camp Blanding for the advantage of both The grounds which the prison has been using for pasture have been mowed and improved pasture developed . . .

"It is good to note the entire absence of friction at Camp Blanding. The Military Department has recognized the limitations of the Prison System and has sympathized with our difficulties. On the other hand the Prison Department has recognized the limitations of the military and have sympathized with the difficulties confronting that department. The net result has been that the property at Camp Blanding has not deteriorated in any respect but has been steadily maintained and improved. Further the Prison System has been able to pasture a considerable number of beef cattle on the unused lands at Camp Blanding and the beef produced has been used for the food expenses at the State Prison.

"All in all this seems to be an instance in which two great departments of a State Government can cooperate for the benefit of both. It is hoped that this arrangement can be continued indefinitely."

A forest management program is being conducted at Camp Blanding and cooperation in execution of this program is given to the Military Department by both the Florida State Prison and the Florida Board of Forestry.

The Florida State Improvement Commission has since World War II conducted all of their warehousing operations incident to the procurement and distribution of surplus properties to the educational institutions in the State of Florida from warehouses at Camp Blanding which are owned by and are under the control of the Armory Board. Approximately twelve (12) temporary type buildings are being utilized for this purpose. This cooperation between two State agencies has resulted in a considerable saving to the State in funds which would have otherwise been spent for rental or construction of warehouses.

TRAINING ACTIVITIES

During the biennium, the rifle range at Camp Blanding was utilized by the Florida National Guard for weekend firing. Approximately 6,969 officers and enlisted men of the Florida National Guard participated in this firing. In addition, the rifle range was utilized by personnel of the Marine Detachment, Jacksonville Naval Air Station; Florida Military District; 317th Military Police Battalion; units of 347th Infantry Regiment; and 937th Engineer Aviation Group, Orlando Air Force Base, with an estimated 4,815 individuals firing.

Bombing practice continues to be conducted at Stevens Lake, Camp Blanding, by U. S. Atlantic Fleet, Fleet Air, Jacksonville Naval Air Station, Mondays thru Fridays, during the daylight hours.

During the biennium, the facilities at Camp Blanding were utilized by the Florida National Guard on forty-one (41) occasions for the purpose of conducting Staff Conferences and unit training. A number of map programs and unit exercises were conducted throughout the training terrain at the Reservation. There were thirty-eight (38) unit weekends of utilization of the facilities incident to rifle firing. These included overnight accommodations and meals.

RECREATION

Officers and enlisted personnel of the Florida National Guard as well as personnel from the U. S. Naval Station, Green Cove Springs, and the Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, have utilized the recreational facilities at Camp Blanding during the biennium.

MAINTENANCE OF FEDERAL ARMY EQUIPMENT

A Maintenance Shop for the repair of vehicles, ordnance, signal, and other types of federal equipment issued to the Florida National Guard, is located at Camp Blanding, Florida. Service Centers are established in five locations within the State to repair and service certain types of equipment within their area.

During the biennium personnel from the State Maintenance Shop expended one hundred ninety-eight (198) man-days in the delivery of World War II type vehicles to Atlanta General Depot for a savings to the Government of approximately $5,000.00. Seven hundred twenty-two (722) man-days of personnel were used in direct support of units by contact teams and the performing of technical inspections.

During the period 1951-1952, only twenty-four (24) items were evacuated to Army installations for repair due to lack of facilities at the State shop, and only one hundred sixty-two (162) man-hours were lost due to personal injuries from accidents.

FLORIDA STATE GUARD

Mindful of the possibility of world events requiring the mobilization and induction of the National Guard into active federal service, plans for the rapid organization of a State Guard as provided in the National Defense Act and by Chapter 251. Florida Statutes, are kept current in this office.

This State military force will be commanded and staffed by officers assigned to State Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, former officers of the Florida National Guard, officers of the State Guard Reserve, and other qualified persons who have had prior suitable military service. The initial State Guard will consist of:

State Headquarters & Headquarters Detachment
Five (5) Battalions (thirty-six (36) Company units)
Authorized Strength — Officers	207
Enlisted Men	2597
Aggregate	2804

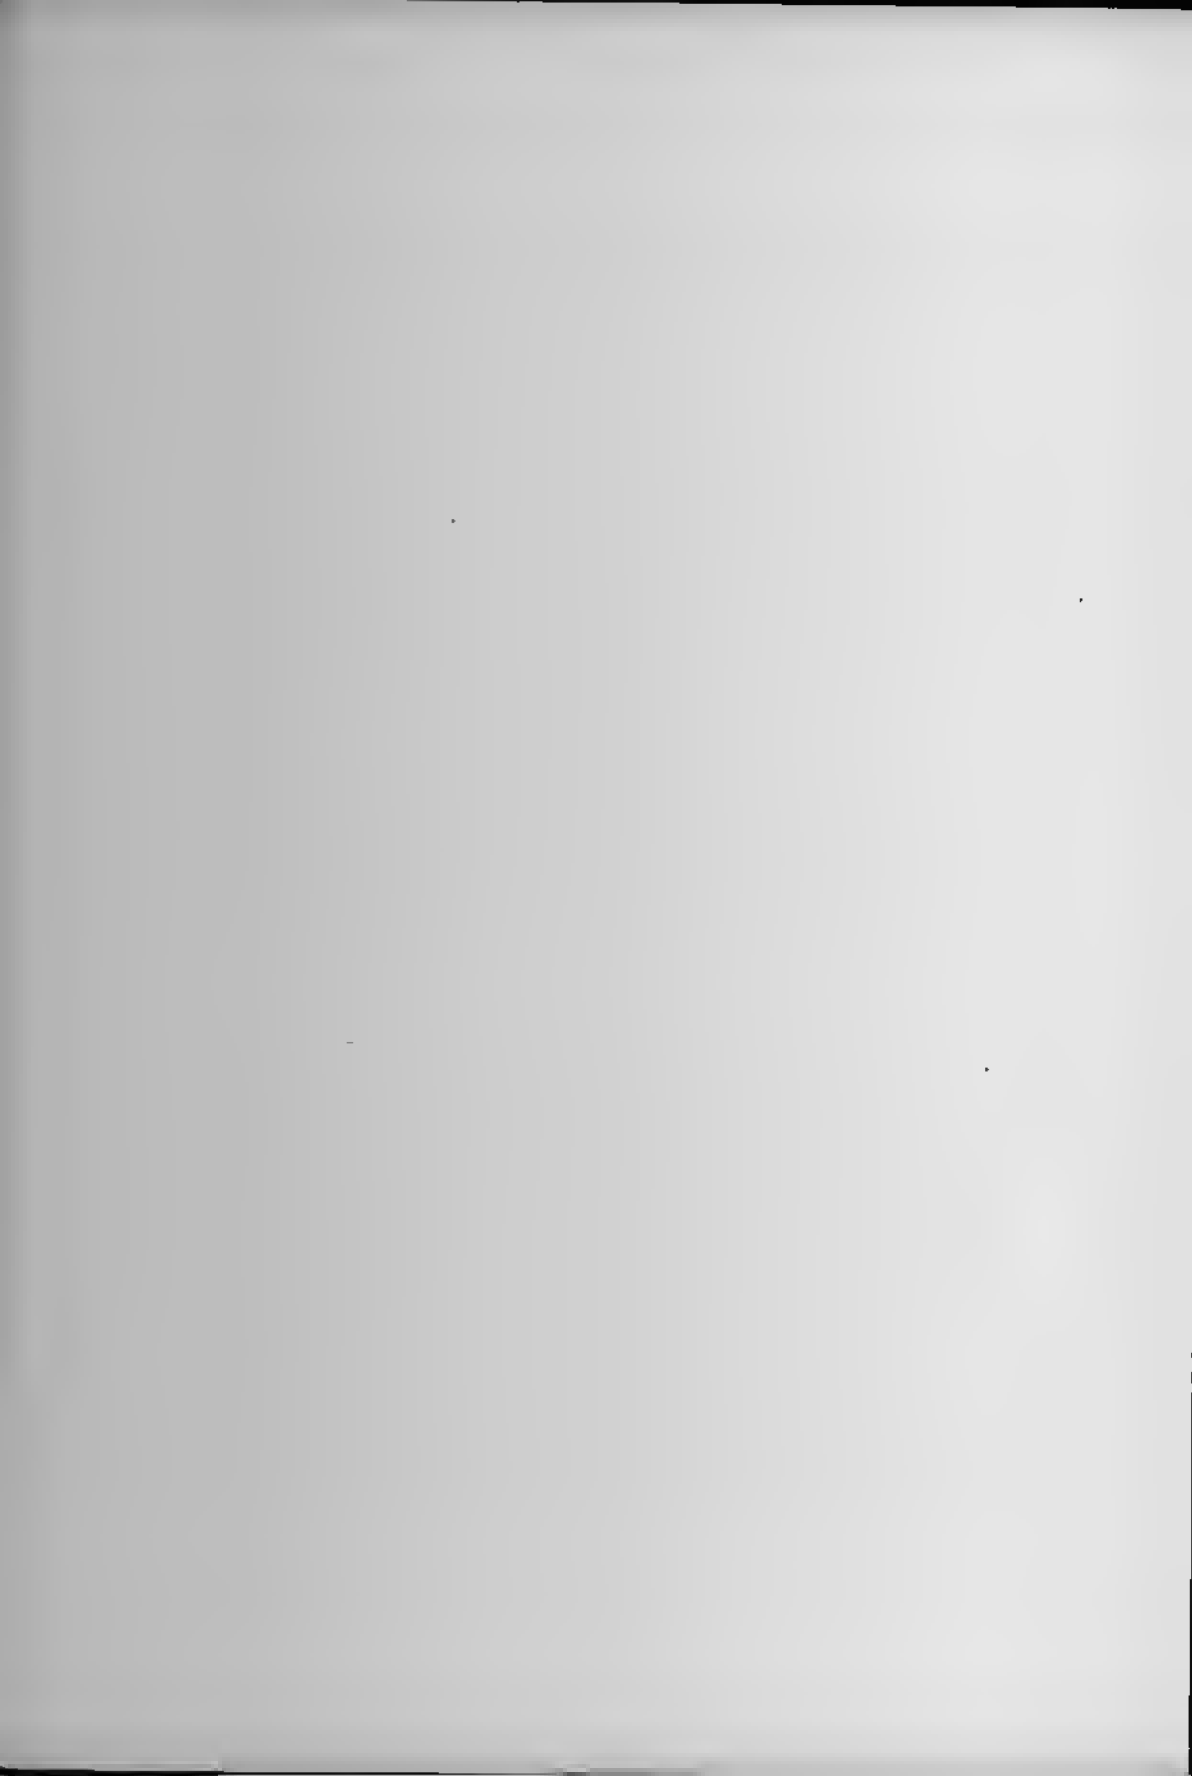

State Guard units will occupy armory facilities now under control of the Armory Board and presently housing the Florida National Guard units. In that uniforms, arms, equipment, motor transport and maintenance of National Guard units are furnished by the Federal Government, it will be the responsibility of the State to bear the cost of these items for training, operation and administration of the State Guard. Any pay of State Guard troops for training, active duty or administration, must be provided by the State.

Former officers of the Florida State Guard and the Florida National Guard who have indicated their willingness to again serve the State in time of a major emergency are listed in the State Guard Reserve. This organization is an inactive component of the Military Department, State of Florida, authorized by the Governor in March 1948.

SELECTIVE SERVICE SYSTEM

The Selective Service Section, Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, Florida National Guard, has the primary mission of training its personnel for operation within a State Headquarters of Selective Service in an all out mobilization. The splendid assistance rendered this Section by the State Director of Selective Service and the officers on duty in his State Headquarters, has made possible the excellent progress made by the Section toward its training objective.

Three members of the Section are presently on an active duty status with State Headquarters of Selective Service, and all members of the Section performed their summer field training of fifteen (15) days there. An excellent plan for the expansion of the present System within the State in event of a major emergency, is maintained in a current status by the Section at all times.
